Post, No. 1, G. A. R. President Harrison made the visit pursuant to a promise made some months ago. The President's party arrived about 11:20 o'clock by the Baltimore and Ohio road. They were met at the station by the commander and other officers of Meade Post, with a delegation of the Memorial day committee. Carriages were taken and the party escorted down Chestnut streat to Independence Hall by At the unrent request of thousands of her petrons mime. A. Ruppert, the world-renowned complexion specialist and famous lecturer, has just published a handsome book, riving the public the benefit of her years of study and experience. Those out of town can secure it by sending the postage. down Chestnut street to Independence Hall by the First City troop. Here Mayor Stuart, sur-rounded by members of councils and promi-nent citizens, formally welcomed the President.

THE PRESIDENT REPLY. In his reply to Mayor Stuart's speech of welcome the President said:

come the President said:

"Mr. Mayor, comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic and fellow citizens: I esteem it a great pleasure to stand in this historic edifice in this historic city and to take part today as a comrade of the Grand Army of the Republic in these most interesting and instructive exercises, which commemorate events which have been most deeply sunk in our hearts. I think it eminently appropriate that we should stand for a little time before going to the graves of our fallen comrades in this edifice, where the foundations of independence were laid and put into development to make this great nation today. In my recent extensive trip through the country I was able to see the effects of planting these seeds of freedom in the flouishing plants that have grown.

"We are here in a community that was instituted on principles of peace and good will among men. But you gave a conspicuous illustration of the facts that the fruits of peace need to be protected.

"You did not all depart from the great lessons taught when you united with the comrades from all the other states to hold up the hanner. I took a severe cold upon my chest and lungs and did not give it proper attention; it developed into broughtits, and in the fall of the same year I was threatened with consumption. Physicians ordered me to a more congenial climate, and I came to San Francisco. Soon after my arrival I commenced taking Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites regularly three times a day. In ten weeks my avoirdupois went from 155 to 180 pounds and over; the cough meantims ceased.

to maintain peace, and you have established in the affections of all of us the flag of our faith and the question of submission to the Constitution and the law in all states has been settled to the contentment of all.

"I appreciate most highly this welcome, and I take part in these exercises with a sense of their fitness and a sense of the greatness of the event which they commemorate.

"I have never been able to think that this day is one for mourning, but think that instead of the flag being at half mast it should be at the peak. I feel that the comrades whose graves we honor today would rejoice if they could see where their valor has placed us. I feel that the glory of their dying and the glory of their achievement covers all grief and has put them on an imperishable roll of honor."

At 12 o'clock the hall was opened to the public, and from that hour until 1 o clock an informal reception was given to the Prosident and members of the cabinet.

Dr. Henry C. McCook and Rev. Dr. Francis L. Wayland. General George G. Meade's grave was especially honored by volleys from a battery and the small arms.

After honoring the dead the President and his party proceeded to the Union League, where they were received by the president of the club, ex-Mayor Fitler, and the guest committee. Dinner will be served at 4 o'clock, and a reception to members of the league and the members of Meade Post by invitation will be held from 5:30 to 6:30 o'clock.

At 7 o'clock the President and party will be taken in charge by the guest committee, who will escort them to the Baltimore and Ohio station, where they will take the train for Washington.

During his stay here the President were the veteran badge of the Grand Army of the Republic.

H. B. SMITH & CO., Artists, son to head the column that braved the storm at Quebec. Montgomery and his associates of the revolution achieved the independence of three millions of freedmen, but glorious as their work was it would have been without enduring results if the men whom we this day honor had not preserved American unity. The great republic is today the marvel of the world. We are near the beginning of another century, and if no serious change occurs and America continues her normal growth.

another century, and if no serious change occurs and America continues her normal growth, in the year 1935—in the lifetime of many now in manhood—the English-speaking republicans of America, under one flag, will number more than 180,000.000.

"To escape the charge of being vainglorious and boastful of our future I gladly use the prophetic words of the great Englishman, John Bright, whose cloquent voice was raised in our behalf during the dark days of the civil war. 'I see,' said Mr. Bright, 'another and a brighter vision before my gaze. It may be a vision, but I cherish it. I see one vast confederation, stretching from the frozen north to the glowing south, and from the wild billows of the Atlantic to the calmer waters of the Pacific main, and I see one people, one language, one law and one faith, and all over that wide continent the home of freedom and a refuge for the oppressed of every race and every clime."

freedom and a refuge for the oppressed of every race and every clime.'
"My friends and neighbors, republicans and democrats, patriots all, as in every succeeding year we decorate the graves of our heroes let us thank God for the rich legacy of freedom and nationality they and the fathers of the republic have bequeathed to us, and remember that all these coming millions will rise up and call them blessed."

The Vice President then introduced the orator of the day, Gen. Geo. H. Sharpe.

rates for the occasion and as a result and others flocked to the spot. An elaborate program was carried out, and ex-Gov. Foraker delivered an eloquent oration. Among those who occupied positions of honor around the monument were the surviving descendants of the eight raiders, some of whom live in Ohio, others in Kentucky and others in Kansas, Arkansas, California, Nebrasks, Iowa and Oklahoma. Quite a number of members of the second, twenty-first and fhirty-third Ohio regiments of infantry, to which the raiders belonged, were among the participants.

Gov. Foraker, in the course of his address, said: "Why is it we are here? What purposes are we seeking to promote? Why should a justice of the Supreme Court and two distinguished and honored citizens who are his associates on the commission labor as they have with zealous pride to discharge the duties that have been intrusted to them? The answer is plain and simple. In the first place there is no bitterness, vain glory or unworthy spirit of any kind involved. It is but stating the exact truth to repeat as fairly applicable to the whole of that great army who wore the blue the dying words of Wilson, that he had no hard feelings toward the south or her people; that he loved the Union and the flag, and was fighting to uphold them, and not to do unnecessary injury to any one.
